Adoption Ceremony

Birthday Party

It's your birthday. Have fun? Or remember what you used to have with some of these people? Or both, if you can figure it out.

Wear the fledgeling hat for this scene.

This scene ends when everyone goes outside for the piñata.

Wedding

Chukar is going to die soon. Spend some time with them before they go.

Retirement Party

When you were 17, you chose a new name. Write it on your nametags.

What role did Chukar's career play in your life? Did it influence what kind of parent they were?

Hospice

What do you want to say before you go?
Are you ready for your next life?

When you're ready to die, nod to the GM.
You'll molt and be playing a baby for the rest of the scene.

Adoption Ceremony

It's your adoption ceremony.

Think of what speech you might like to give.

Why do you want to be a parent?

What did Lark mean to you as an adult?

What will it be like to have them as a kid?

Think about what you want to say to the family.

Retirement Party

Your parent is 11 years old and they hardly remember being your parent anymore.

What is that like for you?

Adoption Ceremony

What is it like interacting with your former parent, who is 6?

Birthday Party

It's Avocet's birthday. Can you protect their ability to be a child from their relatives who want the former version of them?

To start the scene, consider starting a rendition of Happy Birthday.

Wedding

You've got a terminal illness and you don't have much longer to live.

You don't know who is going to adopt you when you die. Can you find a parent?

Retirement Party

You're retiring. What was your career?

Are you giving a speech to the family?

What will you be doing with your time now?

Hospice

When you were 17, you chose a new name. Write it on your nametags.

Naming Ceremony

Today is your naming ceremony.

Think of what speech you might like to give. What does it mean to you that you're coming into yourself?

What does the name you've chosen mean? Is it an homage to someone or something? Something about your place in life or in the flock? Something about how you want to be seen?

Wedding

You and E are getting married. Who proposed to whom? When did you start dating?

Retirement Party

When you were 17, you chose a new name. Write it on your nametags.

Your younger flock member Egret is really funny. Maybe you should spend some time with them and teach them a thing or two.

Naming Ceremony

Journal Keeper

You're attached to the idea of your past self. You don't want to let it go, and you're afraid of the impending forgetting.

Perhaps you're keeping a journal of what happened before.

What are you afraid of? Who forgot you in the last life?

Free Flier

You're running away from what you were or how people saw you in the past life.

You want to be something new, something specific. Something different.

What ideas are you running away from?

What do you want to be now?

Retracer

You're trying to trace out the same life path you had last time around.

It went well last time, so you figure for a good life you just have to make sure it goes the same way.

However, there's one thing you want to do differently this time. What is it?

Odd Duck

You don't quite fit into the flock anymore. What makes you different? Why don't you fit in?

People wish you were more like your previous self. How do you respond to that?

Elder Owl

You're having a tough time adjusting to being treated as a child. You think you make more sense as an adult, and it sucks that people aren't taking you seriously anymore.

What do you miss most about adulthood?
